

ISO 9001:2015 Quality Management System Auditor

- Design and development controls -

The organization is required to control the design and development process and apply measures to ensure that this process is effective.

The organization has to ensure that:

- the results to be achieved are defined;
- reviews are conducted;
- verification is performed;
- validation activities are conducted;
- actions are taken on problems found;
- documented information is retained.